

“global warming is serious, but we still have time...”

Jinwei Zhou, 2021

Digital painting and collage, 1081*1080

Topic:

“global warming is serious, but we still have time...” exhibits how Sea level rising caused by global warming impacts the rich communities and poor communities. For people live in poor regions have already experienced the severe impact of sea level rise on them, they are overwhelmed. But for people who live in rich regions (such as the United States, Europe) have not suffered much impact are optimistic, the title of my artwork is an overly optimistic statement for these people. In fact, they are already on the ship that are sinking.

climate change is already there. and we're passing the deadline.